

Opt-Out: Protect Your Children's Education

Learn how to opt your child out of curriculum that conflicts with your family values.

What Is the Opt-Out Program?

The Opt-Out Program gives parents the tools and resources to protect their child's education. You can safely opt your child out of lessons, curriculum, or activities that conflict with your family's values or beliefs.

How It Works

Three ways to get started:

Testify to Your School Board

Ask your district to adopt and enforce opt-out policies.

Write Letters and Op-Eds

Shape the public conversation in your community.

Report an Issue

Tell us when your district ignores your rights.

Why This Matters

The Supreme Court reaffirmed parents' constitutional right to opt their children out of sensitive classroom instruction. Right now, school districts are deciding how much transparency they will offer, and many without parent input. If we don't claim our rights, most districts won't be compelled to comply with the Supreme Court's decision.

WARNING! Waiting invites exclusion. Acting now ensures we are part of that process.
